

Volunteer Opportunity for Internationally Educated Medical Laboratory Technologists

Saskatchewan Polytechnic (a post-secondary institution in Saskatchewan) has hired Insightrix Research Inc. (a Saskatchewan-based market research firm) to conduct a needs assessment for a proposed Medical Laboratory Technologist (MLT) Bridging Program targeted at Internationally Educated Medical Laboratory Technologists.

Insightrix Research is looking for volunteers who are interested in participating in an in-depth telephone interview regarding the challenges faced by Internationally Educated Medical Laboratory Technologists (IEMLTs) while trying to become registered to work in Canada. Interviews will last approximately 30 minutes and a $50.00 honorarium will be provided to qualified participants in appreciation of their time.

Insightrix is recruiting IEMLTs who are:

- a) Currently registered with the Saskatchewan Society of Medical Laboratory Technologists (SSMLT) or other provincial MLT Societies.

OR

- b) Seeking certification with the Canadian Society of Medical Laboratory Sciences (CSMLS), registration with the Saskatchewan Society of Medical Laboratory Technologists (SSMLT) or registration with other provincial MLT Societies.

Your input is extremely valuable and would assist in the development of a bridging program for IEMLTs to more easily obtain registration in Canada.

This project will be running from mid-December through mid-January. If you fall into one of the above categories and are interested in sharing your experience, please contact Helen at Insightrix to schedule an interview at your earliest convenience.
